The Cincinnati Commercial speaks of resumption in this way: "The Gold Room of New York is empty and silent. The gamblers have departed. The persistent Greenbackers would call them back."

The approach of the day of resumption, and the wiping out of the premium on gold, have created a greater demand for silver dollars, and a report from Washington says they are paid out of the treasury at the rate of $30,000 a day.

"When Congress meets again," says the New York Tribune, "the Resumption act will be the law of the land, and a permanent plug will thereby have been inserted in the mouth of the windy Voorhees. This will be reckoned as among the greatest blessings of resumption."

It is now generally conceded on all hands that Hon. D. M. Kelly, of Green Bay, will be the Speaker of the Assembly. His fitness above the other candidates is apparent to every one who understands the character of the man and the importance of the position.

Recently the people of Rockford got into a squabble in regard to the appointment of a new postmaster the term of the present incumbent about expiring. It was decided to hold an election which was held last Saturday. Out of a total vote of 1,903, T. G. Lawler received 1,689, his opponent receiving only 214. The latter charges fraud, irregularity and so on, but the best men in Rockford say the election was a fair one.

The new telescope for the Washburn Observatory at Madison, is completed at Cambridgeport, Massachusetts, having been made by Alvan Clark & Sons. It will be shipped to Madison in a few days, and a member of the firm will accompany it and place it in position. The telescope is larger than the famous one now in use at the Cambridge Observatory. It has an aperture of fifteen inches and a half, and a length of twenty feet. The contract price of the instrument was $10,400.

It has been stated that "Brick" Pomeroy had leased the Chronicle office at La Crosse, and that he would hereafter conduct that paper. The publishers of the Chronicle deny that he has leased that office, but admit that he has secured another building and will start an evening paper.
"Brick" is on the down-hill grade of newspaper life. He failed in New York, and has virtually failed in Chicago. He there took up the flat cause, and was the most extreme of all the flatists. His party is killed, and the flat theory is knocked to the winds, and "Brick's" occupation is gone. He is now on the hunt for a new home, and will probably choose the one he abandoned in 1868, when he was popular and rich. He has seen many disastrous reverses since then.

It appears from the statistics that the Legislature of 1879 contains much older men than usual, at least the average ages is greater than it has been for some time.
The Senators average 50 1/2 years, in the Assembly, 45 1/2. The largest vote cast for any member, was that in the Oconto district for D. H. Paleifer. There are no Senators whose place of nativity is Wisconsin.
Eleven of the 33 were born in New York.
Of the Assemblymen, 9 are natives of this State and 29 of New York. The oldest man in the Senate is Lyman Morgan, of Ozaukee, whose age is 64. He has served 8 years in the Legislature. The oldest man in the Assembly is James Barry, of Pipen, and that eccentric man and accomplished scholar, Joseph T. Mills, of Lancaster, whose ages are 67.

The editor of the Washington Post, a Democrat, has been walking and talking with the politicians in that city, with a view to ascertain their views on the Presidential question. He finds that Grant has great strength, and that the impression prevails that he will be the coming man.
"His strength lies in the South, Blaine's in the Northeast, and Washburn's in a less positive sort of way, everywhere." After analyzing the strength of each candidate, he says: "Grant, however, is almost invincible, from the fact that the tremendous influence of the money power is all on his side. This influence really brought about the nomination of Hayes in 1876.
The power that is to prevent it from accomplishing the same in 1880, with the name of Grant substituted for that of Hayes, has yet to assert itself. Such are the probabilities and possibilities bearing upon the case. The nomination of Grant in 1880 seems, therefore, from present indications, to be inevitable. He will accept, of course."

It seems that England is doomed to suffer a worse state of affairs, so far as manufacturing and finances are concerned, than the United States has seen for many years.
There was a time when England was on the topmost wave of prosperity, when her factories were firm, her people prosperous, her banks solid, and her finances easy.
That time seems to have passed. There are dark days for England now, poverty for her workmen, and misfortune for her capitalists. What has caused this great change. It is this: "For many years, the policy of that country has tended to make it peculiarly dependent upon other lands for its prosperity; it has sought to be the workshop and counting-room of the world, and yet has produced year after year a smaller proportion of the food required for the sustenance of its inhabitants.
A double dependence upon other nations for cheap food and for consumers of its products, has thus been brought about, not by accident nor suddenly, but as surely and deliberately as if it had been the conscious aim of all British statesmanship. The policy worked not badly, as long as other countries were content to furnish food and raw materials at such prices as Great Britain was willing to pay, and to buy clothing, iron and other products at such prices as Great Britain pleased to charge. But development of industries in other countries has been steadily diminishing the demand for British manufactures. Year after year British bankers and capitalists have been risking more money in the effort to retain command of foreign markets, while paying an ever-increasing sum for food, and supporting a costly imperial government. So the candle has been burned at both ends, and as the United States begins to recover from the effects of a great civil war, the first struggles of our industries to recover their independence bring new disasters to England."

inforced.

has been issued abolishing the administration hitherto controlling the passing forward of reserves to fill vacancies in the the students at Kiev and Moscow, but it was promptly suppressed. Most of the Meneses, who attempted to assassinate the king.

A marriage has been arranged between Infanta Pella, sister of the king, and the BLAINE'S COMMITTEE.

Bad Luck—The Committee's Supplies
Cut Off—They Want $20,000.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—The bad luck of the Blaine Committee continues. They held a brief session to-day, three members being absent. There was some difference of opinion as to Comptroller Porter's decision cutting off supplies, but all agreed that the decision was binding, and, as he would not change his mind, no money could be had. Therefore they adjourned, subject to the call of the Chairman, after directing that a resolution be prepared for presentation immediately upon the meeting of Congress appropriating $20,- 000 to carry forward the investigation.

The Democrats are elated at the turn affairs have taken, and freely predict that the investigation will be a ridiculous fizzle.
Senator Garland, a member of the committee, remarked to-night that he believed that affairs would peter out without taking testimony or making a report. He thought many Republicans would antagonize an appropriation of money, and thus afford an easy and not overly dishonorable death for the investigation. Many Democrats are disposed to couple the investigation with Potter's, and suggest, as they are each about to fizzle out, the account stands even. The mortification they feel over the Potter fizzle is somewhat neutralized by the anticipated failure of Blaine's committee. In view of the fact that the Democrats on the committee asked Senator Blaine for specific allegations of fraud, he has procured a file of the Charleston News and Courier, a rampant Democratic newspaper, from the columns of which can be proved all that Mr. Blaine or any other Republican has charged.

TAYLOR'S INTERVIEW.

A Remarkable Interview Between the Late Minister and the Wife of the German Emperor.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—One of the most interesting dispatches which the late Bayard Taylor sent from Berlin was that written on the 1st of July describing the visit of General Grant to the German capital.
The Emperor owing to his then recent wound, was unable to receive any one, and the Empress felt bound for that reason to maintain her privacy in the parlor. But the Empress sent for Mr. Taylor, who described the interview in a few words.
"From the absence of certain customary formalities on reaching the place, and the quiet manner of my reception, I suspect that it was meant to be private quite as much as official. The Empress took occasion to express to me the Emperor's interest in General Grant's history, his desire to meet him personally, and his great regret that this was now impossible. Her words and manner implied an authorization that I should repeat these expressions to General Grant. She then spoke very freely and feelingly of the disturbances occasioned by the laboring classes, declared her belief that a period of peace would be the best remedy, and finally said:
'The Emperor knew that I should see you to-day. He has the peace of the world at heart, and he desires nothing so much as the establishment of friendship between nations. I ask you to make it your task to promote the existing friendship between your country and ours. You cannot do a better work, and we shall most heartily unite with you in doing it.
This is the Emperor's message to you, and he asked me to give it to you in his name as well as my own.' She bowed and left me."

"The deep, earnest, pathetic tones of her voice impressed me profoundly. I kept her words carefully in my memory, and have repeated them with only such changes as the translation makes necessary."

STATE TEACHERS.

Wisconsin Teachers in Council at Madison.

MADISON, Dec. 26.—The annual meeting of the State Teachers and County Superintendents met in the Assembly Chamber last night. To-day papers were read by Superintendent Isham, of Elkhorn; Burton, of Janesville; Fawley, of Eau Claire; and Miss Rose Swart, of Oshkosh. After discussing these papers, further ones were read from E. R. Smith, of Berlin; W. H.
Boach, of Beloit; Prof. Kerr, of the State University, and President J. W. Stearns, of the Whitewater Normal School. The Academy of Science, Arts, and Letters meets this evening. The annual election of officers will be held to-morrow. The session will continue till Saturday morning.

THE BERLIN MISSION.

Secretary Everts Speaks About the Berlin Mission.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—Secretary Everts, being questioned to-day about the Berlin mission, replied that the claims of the several gentlemen mentioned would have fair consideration, but that there was not the slightest foundation for saying that this one or that one would get it. The subject had never been mentioned in the Cabinet, and a full Cabinet would consider it before a decision was made. He thought the name would be sent in within a few days after the reassembling of Congress.

GORED TO DEATH.

DURKEE, Ia., Dec. 26.—Mr. E. F. Bayley, of Platteville, Wisconsin, was gored to death by a bull yesterday. Mr. Bayley has devoted his time to the raising of fine stock. Christmas morning he went out to the barn to see that the cattle were all right, when he was attacked by a large bull, and before he could get out of the way of the infuriated beast, he was knocked down and killed.

BEECHER ON METHODISM.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Dec. 26.—Mr. Beecher attended the Methodist Episcopal Missionary festival yesterday. He said, while in the West he used to work hand-in-glove with the Methodists. Indeed, some people thought he ought to be a Methodist.
His Calvinism was never very objectionable to Arminianism, and it does not grow stiffer as it grows older.

FROZEN TO DEATH.

An Ex-Congressman from Pennsylvania Frozen to Death.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Dec. 26.—Ex-Congressman Owen Jones started from his residence at Wynnewood last night to visit a neighbor, and was found before midnight frozen to death by the roadside. The deceased represented the Fifth Pennsylvania District in the Forty-fifth Congress.

SILVER DOLLAR.

An Increased Demand for the Standard Silver Dollar.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 26.—The fall in the premium of gold has already had a noticeable effect upon the silver dollar.
The orders for these dollars at the Treasury are rapidly increasing. It has always been the opinion of United States Treasurer Gibbitt that the circular recently issued, which was also issued in September last and withdrawn, would have put a large amount of silver dollars in circulation.
At any rate, since gold has reached par the orders for silver dollars have been daily increasing in numbers and amount. To-day only one mail was opened, as the Department is taking half holidays during Christmas week, yet there were orders in that mail for 30,000 standard silver dollars. The demand was mainly from the West. Two weeks ago the daily demand for the dollars averaged about 10,000.

FOUL PLAY.

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 25.—The wife of a veteran in the Soldier's Home, named Cole, was found dead on the floor of a shanty near the Western extreme of the grounds under circumstances warranting a suspicion that she was foully dealt with. Her husband claims that she fell out of bed and died. An investigation will take place tomorrow forenoon.

TRAGEDY IN A CHURCH.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 26.—A special to the Globe-Democrat from De Soto, Missouri, says Monroe Gray shot Aaron Mc-Fete through the heart, killing him instantly, at a festival at the colored Methodist church in that place last night. The mur-derer was committed to jail.

OBITUARY.

DURKEE, Iowa, Dec. 26.—Robert Hob-bin, one of the wealthiest and most prominent citizens of Grant County, Wis., died to-day. He was 83 years of age.

CARPENTER.

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 26.—A telegram was received this morning from Matt H. Carpenter announcing that he was in Pittsburgh and that he would arrive in Milwaukee to-morrow.

JANUARY MAGAZINES.

What May be Expected From the Leading Periodicals During 1879.

LIPPINCOTT'S
for January has "Yorkshire Byways," illustrated by Alfred S. Gibbs; "The Artists' Island," illustrated by Dwight H.
Louis; "Women's Husbands—Narcissus," "Flitters, Tatters and the Counsellor," by the Hon. Miss Ferrad; "Wild Boars and Boar-Hunting," illustrated by Dr. G.
Archie Stockwell; "A Young Girl's Experiences during the Sieges of Paris," by A. L.
W.; "Through Winding Ways," by Ellen W. Olney; "The Story of Proverb," by Sidney Lanier; "Christus," by Julia C.
R. Dorr; "Notes of a trip to Newfoundland," by D. C. Macdonald; "Madam Du-barry," by Lucy H. Hooper; "Our Monthly Gossip," and "Literature of the Day." The reader will observe from this brief mention that the number is an excellent one.

APPLETON'S.

Appleton's Journal begins the year with a title page as staid and dignified as that of the English review, and the list of contents somewhat accords with the change.
It will appeal, however, not to an entirely different class of readers, since the Journal has had the patronage thus far of only the very best class among patrons of monthly literature. It is heavier than it has heretofore been, that is all. It is not less bright and entertaining.

SCRIBNER.

The January Scribner opens with "Born the Bold," a Christmas ballad very harmoniously illustrated, by Constantina E.
Brooks. The paper on "Old Maryland Manners," by F. B. Mayer, of Annapolis, is an interesting reproduction of the quaint and stately times of the Maryland Gazette, and of the celebrated Tuesday Club, to the whims and oddities of which considerable space is devoted. Scribner also introduces a new artist in Mr. Mayer, who makes his own drawings, depicting the most characteristic and unfamiliar phases of the regime. Mrs. Oakley's "Hints to Young Housekeepers," are continued in "Home and Society," the special topics being the engagement, treatment and duties of servants. "Bric-a-Brac" is fanciful, humorous and satirical.

THE ATLANTIC.

The publishers of the Atlantic assure us that the high character of their magazine will be fully maintained during the coming year; the various departments which have proved so popular will be retained, the same writers will be employed, etc., etc.
The January number of the Atlantic certainly shows no failure on the part of editors or publishers in amply fulfilling these promises.

FOTTER'S MONTHLY.

The January number of this fresh and vigorous magazine, is up to the high standard it has attained. It contains an interesting article—well illustrated—on the "Famous Highways of the World." It also contains one on America's Song Composers, the first sketch being on the lamented Stephen C. Foster. There are other articles of merit and importance in the magazine which are worthy of a close reading.

A Complete Newspaper.

The enterprise that has made The Weekly Times not only the best journal of its class in Philadelphia, but, by general acknowledgment, the best journal for the family circledissed from any press, is scrupulously maintained. Its contributors from week to week, are among the foremost men of the nation, and no department of news or literature is slighted in any number on any pretext. It is adapted as well to women as to men; hence, although its political intelligence is full and accurate and its political editorials free and fearless, liberal provision is made for religions, literary, dramatic and musical matters, wit and humor, travels and adventure, fiction, poetry, fashions and the chronicle of current social events. In all these departments the pens of the best writers are engaged, while selections from other journals are made with care, taste and fullness that are unsurpassed. The special correspondents of The Weekly Times are found at every news centre, embracing all American and European capitals, and they are charged to spare no labor or expense to give its readers the best and earliest accounts of matters of current interest. In every department of the world of news in addition to the regular correspondence thus provided, this journal is chosen by many of the most eminent men of the day as a medium of communication with the public. The "Annals of the War," embracing chapters of unwritten history contributed by prominent actors in the war of the rebellion, are a valuable feature of the paper, and have become a recognized depository of such matters, whether from Northern or Southern sources. This department, as well as all others, will be well sustained during the coming year. Selections of some of the most valuable war articles that have appeared already have been made, to answer the general demand for their publication in book form. The volume thus compiled, covering about 800 pages (price $4), handsomer illustrated and elegantly bound, is offered as a premium for subscribers. A copy of the "Annals" will be given as a premium to any one sending $15 for a club of ten, or $25 for a club of twenty. Club terms to the Weekly Times: One copy, one year, $2; five copies, one year, $8; ten copies, one year, $15; twenty copies, one year, $25. Address The Times, Philadelphia, Pa.

A Sad Case.

La Crosse Chronicle: One of the saddest misfortunes which it has ever been our duty to chronicle, occurred as a result of the intense cold Monday. Two little boys living twenty miles south of this city, were sent to town, with two horses and a farm sleigh for the purpose of obtaining supplies of groceries. One was about 11, and the other 9 years of age. As they came into town, several little boys ran out to catch a ride on the sleigh and were asked by the occupants thereof to drive for them, as they could not manage the reins.
They wanted to go to the little grocery store near M. F. P. Bradish's residence on South Fifth street, and were driven there.
Upon attempting to alight, it was found that neither of them were able to move and the people in the store came out and carried them inside, where examination disclosed the fact that the feet and legs of the older one were frozen as rigid as icicles, and the hands and wrists of the younger boy were in the same condition. Every care was given them, and as the frozen limbs began to thaw out the two children suffered the most terrible pain. In the evening they were taken to the house of a friend near the corner of Jackson and Fifth streets, where they now are, and report yesterday was to the effect that it would probably be necessary to amputate both legs of the older one. It would seem as if somebody were charac-terable with criminal cruelty in sending two children alone on such an errand upon a day as intensely cold as was last Monday.

—The St. Patrick's Total Abstinence Society are preparing for a joyous dance at their hall on New Year's Eve.

—The Ancient Order of United Workmen meet to-night to elect officers and transact other important business.

—A poor memory is a bad thing but a memory of the poor is not so bad, especially during the shivering season.

—Remember the Temple of Honor entertainment and dance to-night. It will be worthy of a most liberal patronage.

—The examination of Sam Dickey, for obtaining money under false pretenses, is set for to-morrow morning before Justice Prichard.

—The funeral services of Mrs. Charlotte Bestwick were held at the First Methodist church this morning, Rev. Mr. Sewell officiating.

—The funeral of Miss Jennie Skelly, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Skelly, took place this afternoon at the family residence in the Fourth ward.

—Tom Addy returned home last evening. He has been travelling for several months as the agent of Mr. Tremaine, who exhibited sun pictures here last spring. Mr. Tremaine is now troubled with his eyes, and is obliged to suspend his work for a short time, and Tom has improved this opportunity to visit his many Jacksonville friends.

—J. S. Bliss, of this city, lectured at Lena Ill., last evening on "Mount Vesuvius." He had a larger audience than ever gathered before to a lecture in Lena, and they listened eagerly to Mr. Bliss' personal experience in the mouth of the old fire-spitter. His lecture was one of a course arranged by the Lena folk for the winter months, and which embraces such lecturers as Theodore Tilton and Dr. Thomas.

WHO IS KELLEY?

The man who was caught stealing horses at Waupun, and who gives his name as Kelley, was yesterday sentenced at Oshkosh to five years in Waupun. He says he has a wife and family living in this city and that they are poor and almost destitute. He confessed his crime. The query now is whether Kelley is his right name or an alias.

THE CRIMINALS SENTENCED BY JUDGE CONGER TO-DAY.

In the Circuit Court to-day Judge Conger met out to several prisoners their punishment for their offenses.

The first to step up to the bar was William Hagany, a boy of fifteen, who had been found guilty of an indecent exposure of his person. He still protested his innocence but was fined $50 and about $16 of costs with the provision that until this was paid he should remain in jail, the limit of his imprisonment being, however, two months.

Mr. and Mrs. George Marbecker, an anything but prepossessing couple stepped up, having been found guilty of keeping a house of ill-fame. Their resort was known as the Castle. The Court fixed the fine at $100 and $39 costs, and committed them to jail until the fine was paid, the limit of the imprisonment being, however, three months. The woman was very anxious to learn from the Sheriff whether she and her husband couldn't room together during the three months, and was sadly disappointed on finding out that there were no double stalls in the jail.

Stephen Caniff was the next prisoner sentenced. His case seemed a sad one. Steve used to be one of the best hands in the shoe factory, and is very handy in doing almost any kind of work, but whiskey has been his ruin. Some months ago his faithful wife sought and obtained a divorce from him because of his intemperance, and for a year or more he has been going down hill rapidly. During the summer he has worked some on the farm of Thomas Austin, but this fall he forged his employer's name to an order for some clothes, and then pawned the clothes for drink. As a result he was lodged in jail, and to-day was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary.

Robert Morrison, a youth, whose alias was Dennis Nash, was brought before the bar, he having already pleaded guilty to having snatched a silk handkerchief from the pocket of Mrs. Bessie Jackman, at circus time. Owing to the fact that his previous record had been good, as far as could be learned from friends and acquaintances in Chicago, where he lived, he was let off with a fine of $25 and $10 costs, and in default of payment stands committed to jail for five days.

Frank Wood, a hard looking customer, who claims to hail from Rockford, and who is charged with having been with Morrison, "working the crowd," was released on his own recognizance, there being no evidence to convict him of picking pockets. The Court warned him to skip the town as speedily as possible, and he gladly promised to do so.

George B. Custer, the patent rights man, who stood charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, did not appear for trial and his bail was declared forfeited.

The bail of George Ream, the butcher, was also forfeited. It is understood that George has joined his family in Chicago.

SWAYNE'S TAR AND SARSAPARILLA PILLS are prepared expressly to meet this necessity; being composed of purely vegetable ingredients, of which Podo, phyllin or Mandrake, Blue Tree Tar, Sarsaparilla, Yellow Dock and other concentrated juices enter largely into their composition; the whole strength of which is extracted on an entirely new principle.
